

Ollie and the Lost Kite

Chapter 1: A Windy Day

Ollie loved windy days. Windy days meant it was time to fly his favorite red kite in the park.

Ollie's dog, Pepper, always ran along beside him, barking happily at the kite as it danced in the sky.

"Watch this, Pepper!" Ollie shouted, letting the string out further and further.

Suddenly, a big gust of wind snapped the string right out of Ollie's hand!

Chapter 2: The Chase Begins

The red kite sailed higher and higher, drifting far across the park and over the tall trees.

"Oh no! Come back!" cried Ollie, running after it with Pepper close behind, barking with excitement.

They ran past the pond, past the swings, and all the way to the edge of Maple Woods.

The kite disappeared behind a big oak tree, and Ollie's heart sank.

Chapter 3: Nutmeg the Squirrel

Under the oak tree, Ollie met a fluffy-tailed squirrel named Nutmeg, who was gathering acorns for winter.

"Are you looking for something?" asked Nutmeg, peeking out from a low branch.

"My kite flew away," said Ollie sadly. "It was bright red, my favorite color."

"I saw it!" said Nutmeg. "It landed at the very top of this tree. I can help you get it, since I am very good at climbing."

Chapter 4: Working Together

Nutmeg scampered up the tall oak tree, quick as a flash, while Ollie and Pepper waited below.

At the very top, Nutmeg found the red kite tangled gently in a branch and carefully pulled it free.

Down it floated, right into Ollie's waiting hands. "Thank you so much, Nutmeg!" Ollie cheered.

Pepper barked happily, spinning in circles, and Ollie flew his kite all the way home, with a new friend to wave goodbye to.